News and Gossip of Washington and Washingtonians Tensely Told.

"Howdy, friend; got tongs?" This was the universal salutation among rivermen on the lower Potomac and Chesapeake Bay this morning, where fleets of oyster boats anchored at break of dawn to start their annual harvest of shellfish for fall eating. Today is the official opening of the season for bludgeoning, and the productive beds in the lower river and the bay will be crowded with tongs as long as the autumnal and winter appetite for the palatable food prevails. While the private beds in the river and bay have been producing oysters since the opening of the season September 1, it has been unlawful to dig general oyster fishing until today. Tongs and dredgers report that the product this year is excellent, both as to size and flavor, with the beds yielding more plentifully than in many seasons.

Army Officers Transferred. Col. Richmond P. Davis, assistant to the chief of coast artillery corps at the War Department, has been ordered to San Francisco to assume command of coast defenses of the Pacific. He will be succeeded here by Col. Ira A. Haynes, at present commandant at Fort Monroe, Va.

Resume Sale of Army Property. The sale of condemned Government property at Fort Myer, Va., will be resumed at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the fort with the offering at auction of 150 rubber ponchos. Spirited bidding marked the first day's sale on Wednesday.

Seek $100 Diamond Pin. The police have been asked to look for a $100 diamond horseshoe pin, lost or stolen from the apartments of Mrs. Julie Belrose, 3601 Sixteenth street northwest, yesterday.

COMMERCIAL CLUB GIVES STAG DINNER First of Series of Events Proves to Be Big Success.

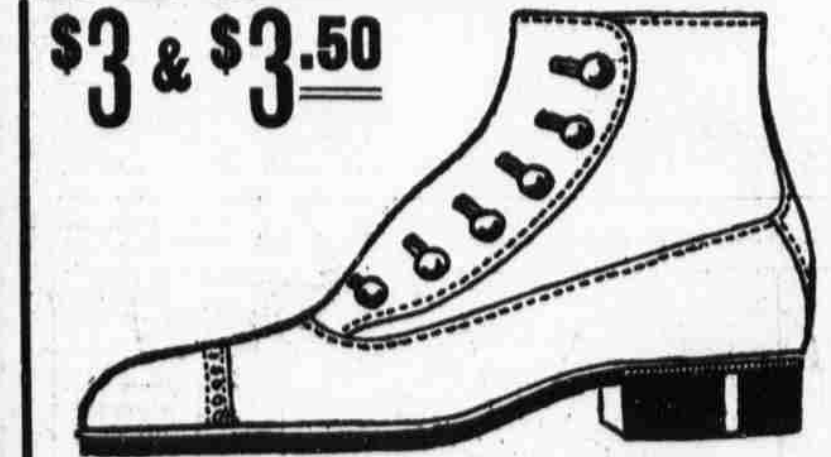

Members of the Commercial Club who attended the stag dinner at the club last night are unanimously agreed today that the affair, which was the first of a series of feasts planned for the autumn and winter seasons, augurs well for the success of all coming events of its kind. Vaudeville talent from one of the local theaters entertained during the dinner. The club orchestra furnished music.

CASINO PRESENTS NEW FILM DRAMA

Anita Stewart Appears in "The Combat," Which Is Given Premier Showing.

The presentation of Anita Stewart in her newest film drama, "The Combat," at the Casino Theater yesterday, one month ahead of presentation of the film in any other city in the country, drew to that theater an unusual audience of picture-play patrons. The play is a new type of drama for Miss Stewart. It makes necessary a much broader display of her ability than has been possible in films in which she heretofore appeared. The film is one of the first of the newer type of the Vitaphone company announces it will use for its stars in the future. This film was produced under personal supervision of J. Stuart Blackton, managing director and vice president of the Vitaphone, and its presentation here so far ahead of its release in other cities is due to the desire of Mr. Blackton to secure the verdict of Washington audiences in advance of preparing for presentation of the film elsewhere. The story of "The Combat" is out of the ordinary style of photoplays. It calls on the heroine to show in an unmistakable way the effect of the combat between her better nature and the temptation to secure only material advancement. An adequate cast is seen in support of the star.

Colored Fat Men Will Race at Church Benefit

Robert E. Lee, colored, will be pitted against Stonewall Jackson, colored, and Abraham Lincoln, colored, in a fat men's race at Green Willow Park next Monday under auspices of the Co-mopolitan Baptist Church. Other features of the entertainment will include a pig race, a watermelon eating contest, and plantation folk songs. The entertainment has been arranged to raise $1,000 for an overdue interest payment on the mortgage on the church.

RECRUITING GOING ON BRISKLY HERE

Prospect of Going to Border Draws Men—Opinion in Guard Orders Won't Come.

The general opinion among the District soldiers encamped at Fort Myer about enlistment orders for the border was given by two Washington youngsters, sons of guardsmen, who were discussing the preparedness question today. "You don't know anything about the army," said one youngster, a sergeant's pride. "Why you don't even know what the soldiers are at the fort for." "Yes I do know," replied the other. "They're there to protect the fort when the Mexicans come up here." Despite the statement of the youths, moving orders are not only hoped for but expected at any time. This fact probably has its effect on recruiting in Washington, which officers in charge report, is going on briskly. Four applicants for enlistment were accepted yesterday and several more failed to pass the physical examination. Those who passed are Fred D. Christie, assigned to Troop A; Frank H. Gleason, assigned to the battery; Albert Middleton and George R. Kelley, both assigned to the First Separate Battalion. All the men are from Washington.

MARYLAND BOYS REST AFTER LONG MARCH

Regiments Win Praise of Federal Commander for Time Made on Muddy Roads.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Sept. 15.—Military boys, as a portion of a division of 5,000 men, shouldered heavy packs containing full field equipment, and in five and a half hours had covered the eighty-mile march to Eagle Pass. By 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon all of the soldiers were up and the soldiers were prepared for the thunderstorm which broke over their camp. Considering the roads—ankle deep in mud—Major Williams, of the Fourteenth United States Cavalry, had predicted Wednesday night that the militiamen would be fortunate to make the march in a full day's march. He congratulated General Gailor on having two of the best national guard regiments that he had ever seen. Not a man from Companies C, K, and M of the First Regiment straggled during the entire march. A few of the men in other units were compelled to take short rides in the ambulances, but the entire division was in line when the march was reached. The division will return to Eagle Pass tomorrow.

"I Know I Could Make It Myself If I Could Get the Right Lumber." Boy, with the ambitions of a man; Man, with the heart of a boy, you have said the same yourselves time after time.

Ready-to-Make Lumber

Solves Your Problem

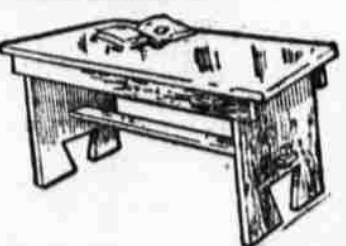

When schools started manual training, and when magazines featured articles telling of the possibilities of home craft in the way of packing-box furniture there arose a demand for lumber—get-at-able, usable lumber, lumber that it was a pleasure to work with.

This Is the Answer to That Demand

Lumber that comes in different size, and shaped strips, all sized and finished. Working drawings are furnished free with the lumber. Surely there was never devised a more practical, profitable kind of home entertainment and instructive amusement than this. It is a pastime that father, mother, and perhaps big and little sister will want to share in as well as for the boy of the family.

Opening Demonstration Saturday

Come to the Fourth Floor and learn how many useful articles you can construct from this Ready-to-Make Lumber—from a bird house to a buffet.
